Church Music Assailed As Godless, Heathenish

Chautauqua, N. Y., July 22

(By A. P.).-Church music is more often a godless quartet singing heathenish music in ar unknown tongue than a Godfearing choir, H. Augustine Smith, director of music, Chautauqua Institution, said in an address here today at a national convention on church music. He said that the church, once the workshop of the musician dramatist and artist, has fallen into low estate—a scrap heap se far as beauty and reverence in the arts are concerned.

"We are spending $16,000,000 on church music every year, and we get less than 5 per cent of worship and genuine helpfulness out of it," he said. "It is just another form of entertainment, of matinee singing.

"A revival of choirs, volunteer young people, trained in schools and glee clubs, under exacting yet kindly leadership, will do more than any other agency to bring young life into the church.'

National Organizations Keep Rural Voters Informed Regarding Attitudes.

CAMPAIGN CONDUCTED WITHOUT SLUSH FUND

Special Attention Directed to Swaying Representatives . From Cities.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR. Through their national organizations, one of which boasts a membership of 1,250,000, the farmers of the United States are putting every member of Congress under NAMING COMMISSIONER the microscope today and examining him as to his attitude toward farm relief. Not even the scrutiny given the records of members by the organizations for and opposed to prohibition is more inclusive than that in which the farmer bathes the man who comes to sit in Congress. Here in Washington, in the offices of one of these great farm WARM WAVE AT CAMP organizations was carved out the And here today, as this is being read, are going out tens of thousands of charts to the rural sections showing in detail just how every member of Congress voted during the last session on every measure relating to farm relief. Back to the farm, the crossroads postoffice and the village store goes the evidence as to whether the local congressman and senators were for or against farm relief the last seven months.

More than 20 measures relating to farm relief came to a vote in one or both houses of Congress the condition of the last seven months.

He passed practically the entire morning at the executive offices, arriving at 9 o'clock and remaining until noon. the record is going out to the million and more farmers for their inspection. It is frankly intended as a guide to them at the polls, though no word of advice as to how they shall vote accompanies it. The farm organizations, again like the prohibition and antiprohibition associations, are nonpartisan. They profess not to care whether a man is a Republican, Democrat, Progressive or Socialist, so long as he talke the language of farm relief and votes in accordance with the farmers' creed.

The farm organizations are, perhaps, unexcelled in their power by any other associations of kindred spirits in Washington. They operate at full capacity during a legislative session, always with one object in view—the betterment through legislation, of the farmer's position. When Congress is in session there is a steady stream of information pouring out from Washington to the farm sections. It is directed, as through a funnel, by the leaders of the farm organization and it covers every salient detail of the changing situation from day to day.

Should John Jones from Paririeville change his mind overnight, leave the reservation and vote against a farm measure believed to be supported by his constituents, Prairieville hears of it by wire or by letter—sometimes by long distance telephone—before the ink on the record is dry. And information of the kind usually is a tin to the

Not because the farm organizations profess to telling no voter how he should vote and to asking for no concerted drive against Congress by their membership. But there is a certain suggestion in placing, hot from the record, information of this kind before a congressman's constituents when a goodly number of those constituents have decided views as to how he should conduct himself.

Because the farm organizations are nonpolitical and nonpartisan, they spend no money for and make no contributions directly to political campaigns. They employ no emergency speakers, like the prohibition and antiprohibition organizations do. They spend no thousands for telegrams to make a drive on Congress, although their individual members undoubtedly do so. They contribute nothing to any candidate's campaign, your correspondent is informed, hence they file no categories and their organizations are required to file under the corrupt practices act.

Thus there will be no so-called slush funds raised in the farm belt this year to advance the campaign of any candidate. What money is being spent is being spent within the various organizations in the form of postage, office expenditures and the hire of the regular staffs. It is being utilized to get information to the membership. The organizations are confident that the individual members will use the information for the furtherance of tarm relief in their own way—at the polls.

Perhaps 50 various national and State organizations of other interests will file statements of campaign expenditures this year under the corrupt practices act, but one

By Thesis on Hot Dogs

Special to The Washington Post. Chicago, July 22 .- The frankfurter, better known as the "hot dog," has barked at the portals of higher education and has been officially admitted to no less an institution than the University of Chicago.

Lee Miles Roderick, a student, is responsible for the entrance of the "hot dog." Roderick is striving for a degree of doctor of philosophy and sought a subject for the required thesis. Today he blossomed out with a long document, neatly typed and bound, which outlines the general plan intended to extend the life of "hot dogs." The thesis deals generally with meat spoilage, but with the hot dog in particular. At the university it was announced that Roderick's thesis will win the coveted degree.

New York, July 22 (By A. P.).—A pathetic little widow, who twelve days ago saw her husband dash from her side to his duty and his death, today told the court of inquiry investigating the Lake Denmark naval arsenal disaster, where the lightning that caused 21 deaths and $90,000,000 damage first

SENATOR FESS' VIEWS.

In an authorized interview, doubtless reflect ing the opinions of President Coolidge and the administration, Senator Fess states that he does not believe there will be "any formidable retaliation by Republicans of the disaffected sections against the Republican tariff. The farmer knows that his prosperity has been built up by the tariff and the markets it has given him in this country. These weakened, he will find his condition worse, and he aknows it."

Senator Fess believes the Republicans will get the best of the breaks in the Senate elections. He believes the only doubtful States will be Arizona, Nevada, Oklahoma, Missouri, Kentucky and Maryland. These six States, says the senator, have gone Republican more frequently than they have gone Democratic: and the vote of the women will determine the result largely. That vote, the senator believes, will largely be with the Republicans. He expects the Republicans to carry Massachusetts and New York.

Senator Fess doubtless reflects public sentiment when he states that President Coolidge is stronger than ever among the people. His economy program has won the support of the to an unprecedented degree. "Of course," says the senator, "the only fly in the pintment is the agrarian movement, but I think this is going to disappear.'

The Republican convention in Iowa seems to confirm the opinion of Senator Fess. 6

Most of the people who boast of "overcoming" temptation never saw a real one.

THE MOSQUITO IS DOOMED.

The marine corps, in conjunction with officials of the public health service, it appears, have actually found a means for exterminating the mosquito. On July 1 the experiment of spreading paris green over the breeding places of the pests with the aid of an aeroplane, resulted in the annihilation of about 80 per cent of the insects; but that was not sufficient. The marines desired a full 100 per cent of casualties and the campaign was continued. It was found that by using a mixture of 50 pounds of the poison with three times the quantity of hydrated, or air-slacked, lime, it is possible to dust an area at a cost for materials of only 10 cents an acre. The use of lime in connec tion with paris green prevents the destruction of plant life, but all insect activities are found to disappear almost instantly following the

Thus far something over six square miles of the marshes in the vicinity of Quantico have been treated and it is asserted that the mosquito has been absolutely exterminated over that area. The work has watched with great interest by officers from other stations and it is announced from marine headquarters that the senior medical officer of the Norfolk navy yard, Commander N. T. McLean, is planning to carry on the work of mosquito extermination on a very large scale in the salt marshes in the vicinity of Norfolk and Virginia Beach, which rival the New Jersey resorts as breeding places.

Even the heretofore invincible Jersey skeeter is threatened with destruction through the discovery that an airplane carrying a ton of mixed lime and poison can conquer an army of gallinippers when manipulated by the U.

STORE EMPLOYES.

Recently many of Washington's great department stores have been hosts to their employes at the annual outings which have be me so much a part of the department store year. Another thing that four out of five have in America is good-looking teeth.

SOUTHERN AID. 1

If the Western radicals who are planning to attempt to make trouble for the administration on account of the tariff are counting on South ern support, they are doomed to disappointment. Only fifteen Democrats in the Senate voted for the Norris, or committee, amendment, the outer world; increasing the amount France substituting the McNary-Haugen plan for the House cooperative plan; and of the fifteen Democrats only nine, (Ashurst, Bratton, Caraway, Heflin, Jones of New Mexico, McKellar, Mayfield, Simmons and Tyson) are from the South. Twenty-one Democratic senators voted against the McNary-Haugen amendment, and fifteen of them are from the South. They are: Blease, Broussard, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Ransdell, Reed of Missouri, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Smith, Stephens, Swanon, Trammell and Underwood.

There is nothing in common between the farmers of the West who are protectionists and the farmers of the South who are traditionally free traders, but who are rapidly opening their eyes and becoming protectionists. In fact, when the 1922 tariff was being framed the South demanded protection for Southern products.

As a last resort the farmers might threaten not to buy any more automobiles.

GLARING HEADLIGHTS.

The Baltimore Sun expresses its amazement at information reaching it that the people of Washington are not subjected, at night, as are those of other cities, to the blinding effect of what it characterizes as "the other fellow's cock-eyed headlight." The Sun inquires how this has been accomplished, and adds that if traffic authorities here have solved the glaring headlight menace they have done something no other city in the country has done.

It would be most gratifying to confirm the information" prevalent in our neighboring city, but due regard for candor and truth makes this impossible. Improperly adjusted headlights in Washington still imperil the lives of pedestrians and motor car drivers alike, despite all that traffic officials have been able to do, and they have been zealous in this regard. Conditions in Washington, perhaps, are not quite so bad as in other cities of like size, but they are far from perfect, as those who frequent the highways at night well know.

For those who deliberately refuse to comply with the regulations and disregard all considerations of safety of the public, the present noment seems opportune for the application of a remedy that is at hand. New permits are now being issued to drivers of automobiles. Before the issuance of this paper, without which none may drive a car, the authorities should require all applicants to file a certificate that their headlights have been adjusted as the regulations command. If such an order is issued and adhered to without fear or favor and all treated alike, better safeguards will be in-

It is claimed that automobile manufacturers have not been able to supply the market with a serviceable headlight, at a low price, that will remain in adjustment. However that may be. all cars are required to comply with the law before permits are issued, motorists who respect the rights of their fellows-and they are in the majority-can have their lights readjusted when the customary monthly inspection is made. These hot nights have brought motor cars into the highways in unusual numbers and even a casual survey shows that entirely too many drivers are illuminating the roadway with a glare that not only is blinding but extremely dangerous.

Well, well; our flawless forefathers who wouldn't do what we do were guilty of snuff.

GROWTH OF THE GOOBER HABIT. When the great Van Amberg show years ago traveled the highways exhibiting the wild tiger and the great kangaroo in every village of the country "double-jointed peanuts" were sold by the "gentlemanly ushers" and other hangers on at 5 cents a bag. They were the pioneer distributors of the goobers in the Northern States and the total value of the business scarcely exceeded a few thousands of dollars Then came the son of sunny Italy with his perambulating roadster who occupied about every street corner not preempted by his com patriot with hand-organ and monkey. Guiseppe and Tony educated the Northern children in the delights to be obtained in a bag of peanuts But the baseball parks are the real home of the goober-eating industry today and it doubtless is due to the enormous demand among the fans in the bleachers and grand stands that the there exists in this country today no fewer than 68 establishments employing 1,954 people in These people received in wages $963,000 last year and the wholesale value of the product of their labor, added to the original cost of the nuts, reached the respectable total of $20,328,000. No figures are available which will give authentic information as to the spread between the price the Virginia farmer got for his crop and that paid by the peanut consumer in the bleachers.

Incidentally, it is doubtful if any one is interested in pursuing the subject to that end unless it might be the statesmen on the Hill who like to point out how the farmer is robbed by the middle man.

"That fellow a 100 per cent American? Why, there isn't an element in our population that he hates!"

But, as is the case always when the disease of currency inflation breaks out, prices are going skyward, and the purchasing power of the paper franc is declining. Domestic prices are 70 per cent higher than a year ago, measured in paper francs. Farmers are receiving high prices for their products, but the francs they are paid will buy 70 per cent less than they

WASHINGTON WEATHER.

The trying weather Washington has been enduring the past two days is enough not only to ruffle the temper but imperil the health of everybody. The weather man, who, heaven knows, wants to be decent about it, promises relief today, and the hope of the community is that this prediction will be fulfilled.

Meanwhile the health department has is sued a bulletin setting forth a list of "don'ts." Everybody is not so situated as to be able to comply with all of them, but all can observe some of them. Above all, "don't" worry about the weather. It is poor psychology to linger around the thermometer and study the climb of the mercury up the tube. It only makes one hotter and more irritable. Pursue your daily avocation with the least exertion possible, eat little, eschew heating foods and drink, and cease talking about the weather. Then both you and your associates will better stand the distress that is the portion of all.

It is unfortunate that all the Federal departments could not have followed the example set Wednesday by some in letting clerks off who were physically unable to perform their tasks in the stifling heat of their close quarters. The practice was more generally followed yesterday and those employes in the temporary wooden buildings, relics of war days, were relieved of the torture of attempting to labor in a veritable inferno of heat. Work under such conditions cannot be well performed and the government is not such a hard task master that it cannot listen to the ordinary dictates of humanity. There should be no question about the advisability of dismissing Federal employes for the day when Washington swelters as it did Wednesday and yes-

FARM INDUSTRY IMPROVING.

Testimony of witnesses for the farm industry before the Interstate Commerce Commission, when the appeal recently was made by Western producers for a reduction in freight rates, showed the agricultural situation improved materially in 1924-25.

The effect of the evidence, according to the Interstate Commerce Commission, is that a decided improvement has taken place in the profitableness of their undertakings, but that they can not yet be regarded as generally prosperous if we consider unpaid debts and deferred maintenance of machinery and build-

The net result of the evidence, according to the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, is that "it is plain from the record there has been substantial recovery from the post-war depression, but we find that the effects thereof are still in evidence.'

The committee of 22 representing the 11 corn States informs the country that "the cost of producing a bushel of corn, with a 5 per cent return included, is $1.42." The Department of Agriculture reports officially that the cost of producing a bushel of corn in the west north central States was: 53 cents in 1922, 54 cents in 1923, 70 cents in 1924 and 59 cents in 1925. The average cost in the United States in 1925 was 69 cents. With a 5 per cent added for profit, the average cost in 1925 was about 76 cents. It is difficult to see, if these official figures are correct, how the cost per bushel, plus 5 per cent for profit, should be

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Story I heard today was told to me by C. R. Wilson, of Huntington, W. Va. (the Claremore of West Virginia). And by the way. I didn't ask C. R. if he was any kin to old Riley Wilson. Riley's range is right down that way when the picking is good. Riley is a kind of an omen of good times. Where Riley is everybody is prosperous.

Well, this Wilson party I meet one day sitting out on what we would call the front porch in Huntington. But it was "The Open Veranda" in Nice, France. We both spotted each other, for neither one of us could masticate the Frog language. He had just ordered the Frog language. He had just ordered what he thought was to be steak, and it turned out to be Cherries.

I was sitting there having Lunch, or what we would call dinner in Huntington. I had made four stabs at ordering Soup and the nearest I got to it was Sardines.

Nice is near Monte Carlo, but that brings on another story. I asked him if he knew Tom Harvey and of course he did. He told me this Negro story:

His hired girl wanted to get off one afternoon. She told Mrs. Wilson that she wanted to get married. Mrs. Wilson asked her, "Why, I didn't know you were even engaged?" "Yes, mam, I am engaged." "How long have you known this man?" "Oh, long time, but we jes' been engaged a week. You remember I was telling you hout a fureral I was to les' was telling you 'bout a funeral I was to las' week?" "Yes, I do." "Well, I am marrying the corpse's husband." (Copyright, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

When Lies Are Creative

-By GLENN FRANK-

O BVIOUSLY I intend no bill of health for the liar who indulges in deliberate deception either of others or of himself.

I want rather to say a word about certain creative adventures of the magination which we sometimes carelessly classify as lies. A lad of seven was sitting in a great amphitheater, watching the

A first Story.

And then the small group of distinguished men who were to be invested with honorary degrees were presented. To the adults all this was an old story.

On the mind of the lad of seven it worked magic.

"Do you know," he said to a woman who sat beside him, "there is a siderably larger around his abdo nan at Harvard who is a hundred years old, and he has been studying men when his kingly office ended there for twenty-five years, and next year he is going to get all the derefor twenty-five years, and next year he is going to get all the de-The house of Bourboses, even medicine?"

must learn that lying is very wrong."

That night the mother of the lad was telling the incident at a dinner table. The host countered with this interesting tale:

"When I was a lad of seven." he said, "there was a period in which I regaled my father with tall tales of how during the day I had been picked up by eagles and had flown with them far and high. Years later, their destinies how long will the results of the people of France obtain their apparent desire for a man with monarchical power to preside over their destinies how long will the results of the people of France obtain their apparent desire for a man with monarchical power to preside over their destinies how long will the results of the people of France obtain their apparent desire for a man with monarchical power to preside over their destinies how long will the way it could be made. Mrs. Taylor went considerably farther and promised "real fire-works" in an answer to her hus-band's bill which her attorneys Taylor, although he charged that his wife used one of Grange's knees instead of an adjacent chair, rumpled the hair, patted the cheeks and kissed the lips of the line-busting football player, made it plain that he did not blame "Red." Said the husband: "I am extremely sorry that this occurred. Charles Pyle, Grange's manager, is my cousin, and through him, I have come to be on very friendly terms with 'Red.'

BEAUTY AND YOU

BEAUTY OILS.

By Viola Paris.

We speak of burning oil amidnight and pouring it on troubled waters, but ye seldom think of applying it practically to our beauty problem. And this is a great oversight on our part, for, as a matter of fact, the botttle of olive oil in the lee chest and the castor oil in the medicine chest can both be tremendous aids to beauty.

Consider the olive oil in relation to the shampoo. Nothing can be more beneficial to a dry scalp than a massage with warm olive oil the night before a shampoo. The oil should be headed and applied to the scalp with bits of cotton, then massage it in with a gentle rotary motion of the fingers, using the thumb as a pivot. If it is allowed to remain on over night it will be most effective, but even two or three feathers.

Two tablespoonfuls of keepsene added to six ounces of castor oil is also an excellent remedy for dandruff. Two tablespoonfuls of keepsene added to six ounces of castor oil, with a dash of bay rum to take away any odor, make a mixture that not only destroys dandruff but gives a new luster to the hair. This is used the night before a shampoo and applied with a piece of cotton in the same method as the olive oil. The odorless castor oil is recommended.

The Queen of two methods. STOCKS' EARLY GAINS ARE HALTED BY BEARS

stock market today after a temporary burst of strength in the early bession. Exchange rates were mixed, commodities were lower and call money was plentiful at 4 percent on the stock exchange and obtainable on the outside at 3½ per cent.

Early strength in the stock market was caused in part by the decision of the French government to utilize the remaining $25,000,000 of the Morgan credit to save the national treasury from bankruptcy and the speedy overthrow of the Herriot cabinet, with bright prospects for the formation of a national ministry, indicating that the French financial crisis had been tided over for the time at least. A recovery in franc exchange also was reassuring.

On the other hand, it was felt that the foreign situation was still fraught with uncertainty. While its bearing on American stock markets was more or less sentimental, prices had been bid up to a level where many traders had profits. Stocks were sensitive to adverse developments. In the circumstances the conservative policy was to get out of them, and that policy was quite generally pursued. Pool managers, as a rule, were content with extending support on reactions to the issues they were censoring. Aggressive buying operations were suspended to a great extent, notwithstanding converged on the motors, steels, coppers, equipments and the money market.

Selling converged on the motors, steels, coppers, equipments and the high-priced specialties that led the recent rise. United States Cast Iron Pipe, which had advanced 6 ½ points in the forenoon, and Westinghouse Air Brake were lewer by Brake were lower. U. S. Steel common also reacted below its close of last night and the other steels lost

The heaviness of the steel stocks was disappointing, in view of the resumption of dividends yesterday by the Republic Iron & Steel Co., but was not illogical, as that action had been pretty fully discounted prior to the raise. Steel trade news continued good. The Illinois Steel Co., a subsidiary of the U. S. Steel orporation, booked more orders last week than during the corres ponding period in any previous year. The Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. reported a substantial gain in earnings for the first six months

Copper shares also were in sup-y. The oil shares followed the urse of the other active stocks.

Railroad shares likewise developed heaviness. Atlantic Coast Line, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio. Reading and other recent leaders lost ground under profit taking and lack of support. A decrease in car loadings during the week of July 10 was without significance. The Fourth of July holiday week of July 10 was without signifi-cance. The Fourth of July holiday fell in that week. From now on car loadings will reflect the move-ment of winter wheat, which promises to be heavy. During the next few days railroad reports for June will appear in large numbers and promise to be a fertile subject of favorable discussion.

Hope that the acute financial crisis in France would be relieved by the formation of a "national union" cabinet was reflected in the brisk rally of the French dollar bonds. The government's issues, which had been subjected to particularly heavy selling late yesterday on unfounded reports regarding the solvency of the Bank of France rebounded I to more than 2 points and substantial gains were recorded by the various railroad, municipal and French steamship liens. German and Mexican issues displayed a better tone.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

L'Chicago, July 22 (By the Associated Press).—Big domestic receipts, together with enlarged estimates of field in Canada, did much today to accelerate wheat selling here, and to make values decline. Wheat closed unsettled, 1½ to 2½ cents net lower, with corn 1½ to 2½ cents off, oats unchanged to ½@% cent down, and provisions varying from a setback of 17 cents to 5 cents upturn.

Increased arrivals of wheat Southwest attracted special notice, and in particular a huge run of 977 carloads at Kansas City alone. In this connection, it was pointed out that total receipts at primary domestic terminals today were 3,141,000 bushels a year back. So far as Chicago territory is concerned, country sales of wheat were the largest so far this season, and there were indications that receipts here next week will be on a liberal scale. All reports at hand pointed to considerably greater yields than had recently been looked for a chicago trade authority who is travuller extension.

yields than had recently been looked for.

According to a Chicago trade authority who is traveling extensively in the Canadian Northwest, the three prairie provinces are now likely to harvest 23 000,000 to 48,000,000 bushels more than was suggested by the lettest official forecast. Another private estimate, in this case, from a Kansas City expert, puts the Canadian prairie output far higher. Under such circumstances, and with better weather conditions prevailing, wheat prices crumbled, influenced more or less too by declines in the stock market and by uncertainty as to the financial situation in France. The hreak in wheat prices, however, brought in some export business, about 500,000 bushels, largely wheat, at the Guif of Mexico.

Good rains and cooler weather gave a downward swing to the corn market. Besides, the country was a free seller of corn to arrive. Oats held comparatively steady on account of unfavorable crop advices. Provisions a veraged lower.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, July 22 (By A. P.).—
Facing weather conditions even worse than the previous day, cotton today drifted lower and closed at the bottom, or 6 to 9 points below Wednesday, almost entirely ignoring rains that covered all of Texas and much of Oklahoma and Arkansas.

The only response to adverse crop conditions was at the opening and immediately after, when October advanced to 17.60 and January to 17.51, or 11 to 14 points net higher, following firm cables and rain reports from all parts of the Southwest, accompanied by very bullish reports as to crop conditions.

It soon became evident from the character of selling, which included liquidation by Wall street as well as Southern and commission house pressifte, that the trade, in view of uncertainties connected with the bureau report due at noon tomorrow, felt that recent advances in the market had discounted the alleged crop damage to date.

There was a general disposition to recent advances in the market had discounted the alleged crop damage to date.

The was a general disposition to en up commitments and wait the report which many felt might not confirm some of the bullish expectations, having been compiled as of July 16, before the recent wet weather developed. It was the opinion on the floor that a yield indication of 15,000,000 bales would be regarded as about a stand off, but with a probability that bulls would regard conditions since the report was made up, as justifying a lower figure now.

The average of the eight private crop reports issued this month pointed to 15,184,000 bales and to even equal this figure would mean a reduction of 451,000 bales in the government report from its estimate of June.

The selling movement continued throughout the afternoon finding bull interests much less aggressive than yesterday, and forcing October off to 17.37 at the close.

Exports were 7,228 bales, making 6,654,217 so far this season. Port receipts, 6,425. U. S. port stocks, 564,-152.

English has been for many years a member of the Maryland Country a member of the Maryland Country club, and while he has been a consistently low player, he eclipsed all his previous records in the score he made today.

George J. Voigt, Bannockburn; Roland R. Mackenzie, Columbia, and Richard R. Jackson, Baltimore Country club, were runners-up, each with a card of 75.

ACKENZIE started well with a birdie 3 on the first hole, but encountered trouble on the second, scoring a disastrous 6, but thereafter breezed along in fine style, taking 37 par figures for the first nine, and making the homeward journey in 38.

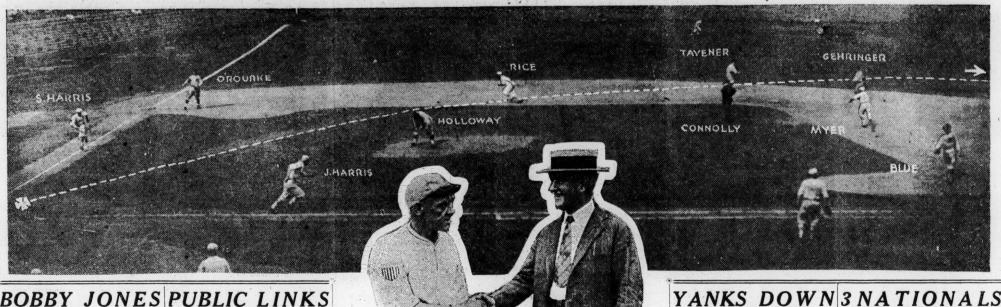

Voight, who was out in 36, one stroke under par, came home in a less satisfactory 39, his score be-ing increased by a ball out of bounds on the eighteenth hole, when he attempted a long drive over the trees in order to cut off the distance to the dog leg green. Their cards were as follows:

Peyton had many nice things to say about Joe as a soldier, and after yesterday's game he also found the time propitious for a few compliments as to Harris' ball-playing ability. The scene below clearly shows Pitcher Holloway ducking the hit which went on a line to center field. Harris is seen on his way to first base, while three teammates are hustling around the bases. In the inset, Col. Peyton is seen congratulating Joe.

It looked as though the game was over when the Harrismen got through hitting in their first frame, for it was good for five runs. Mc-Neely led off with a double and, after Stan Harris sacrificed him along, Rice and Myer singled, J. Harris walked, and then came one-shots off the flails of Judge and Bluege.

This apparently did not worry the Cobbmen any, for inside of five frames they had knotted the count. In the fourth Heilmann poked out a single to right, Gehringer became a stroller and Tavener advanced the pair on a sacrifice, Harry registering while Bluege was killing Woodall at first.

BUREAU OF THE POST.

The board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Comin the office of the secretary, C. Eugene Doyle, with President Clarence R. Ahalt presiding, Wednesday night, discussed the installation of the county's water supply and the selection of an engineer. By reso lution the following letter was sent to the board of supervisors and to the Arlington county board of water supply yesterday:

"Permit us first to preface this ed as a presumption upon the pre rogatives, nor as a reflection upor the personnel of the water supply board, but solely with the view of inviting your attention to certain

Confidence in the board of water supply was expressed when ne bond issue was discussed and a favorable vote urged upon the citi zens. The board of directors of this chamber of commerce has not lost any of this confidence, yet it feels that now is the time when the peo ple of our county should be taken into full confidence of the board of water supply on matters pertaining to its intentions and activities in regards to the major matters, such and necessary engineering super-vision and staff. We further berrom your citizens, and that your be 13,726 execution of this project will be 1924 and lightened if everything is so pre-wise from sented that the citizens can see and 635,000. understand what is going on in con-

"Our board feels that there are several matters which can be termed preliminaries, but should be worked out_before the county is committe out before the county is committed or obligated to the payment of any amount of the authorized funds. While there might be no question concerning them, the saleability of the bonds and the market for them might well be determined before any contracts are made; should not the agreement with the Federal government by likewise consummated bement be likewise consummated be-fore the use of authorized funds are otherwise contracted for; a source of water supply subject to such agreement being the initial revenueproducing asset of the entire water project. The method of construc-tion and installation, we realize, those of engineering jurispru dence and execution, but under proper control of the people's elected representatives, in whose confidence these funds were voted to the project, and in the selection of the person to execute such engineering person to decede such engineering features, the honesty, integrity, capability, congeniality and general fitness to hold public office or position, wherein is involved expenditure of about a million dollars of the county's funds, should be most expensively and the property investigation. the county's funds, should be most carefully and thoroughly investigated and considered, and satisfactorily established in your minds. We feel too much time can not be given to the consideration of these and all details of this important project, and the board should not heed the urgent solicitations of some few, who might be less painstaking to make appointments and some few, who might be less painstaking, to make appointments and contracts binding the county for payments of money (made available by the vote of the majority) before they have thoroughly considered and weighed this matter.
"Two members of your board have been quoted by the press as having stated, among other things, and in connection with the suggestion that an advisory committee be selected by your board to advise

"We feel that if you ever needed an advisory committee, you need one before contracts are made, plans drawn, and the funds pledged or the county obligated, not after all this is done, and while this board has no ambitions for the appointment of any of its members to any such advisory committee, we do feel that men who have been successful in business, who have had some experience in business projects, could be of assistance to any body of three men who might be called upon to perform the task that lies before you.

"We believe a committee of from seven to ten of Arlington county's successful business men would be interested in and could be of material assistance in a judicious expenditure of a million dollars of the county's funds in such a public improvement. Yours is a business proposition and business heads to consult with will do no harm.

"For our part, we will say to you now that if you will appoint such a committee of Arlington county susiness men, men who have really accomplished some plains, to act as an advisory committee, and your board follows the recommendations made by a ma-lived and analysing an address on the committee of the committee of Arlington county susiness men, men who have really accomplished some plains, to act as an advisory committee, and your board follows the recommendations made by a ma-lived and your board follows the recommendations made by a ma-lived manufacture of the commendations made by a ma-lived manufacture of the commendations and their recommendations made by a ma-lived manufacture of the county is funded by the separate States," he said.

Rumor of Bank Rate Raise Fails to Stir Wall Street

New York, July 22.—Wall street failed to get excited today over the bear rumor that the New York Federal Reserve rate was going to be raised.
